The African Cancer Support Group (ACSG) is a key part of The Oladele Foundation, a charitable, non-profit organization serving immigrants in Canada. ACSG is dedicated to supporting people of African descent and their families, navigating cancer disease and other chronic diseases.

We encourage open conversations about cancer within the African/Black community to help demystify the disease and reduce stigma.

Our focus is on providing culturally appropriate and sensitive care, ensuring that support is tailored to the unique needs of our community.

Through this, we aim to foster understanding, offer practical assistance, and build a strong supportive network.

ACSG Support:

We understand the challenges that cancer patients and survivors face, so we offer a range of services to provide comfort and assistance during your journey.

Our goal is to ease the burden on families affected by cancer by providing practical support and resources, such as Education and Awareness, Complementary Therapies, Mental Health support, Advocacy and Research, Provide Coping Skills, Health and Wellness Support, and Material Support.

Material Support:

Our material support includes subsidized transportation aid, acupuncture sessions, hospital visit assistance, home visits, and other essential services.

Mental Health Support:

At the Oladele Foundation, we recognize that facing cancer can take its toll not only on the body but also on mental well-being. That is why we offer comprehensive mental health support services tailored to patients/survivors and their families, including psychosocial and spiritual support.

Advocacy and Research:

Besides providing direct support to cancer patients/survivors and their families, the Foundation is committed to advocating for the rights and needs of African cancer patients and partnering in research activities to improve outcomes.

GET INVOLVED.

The Worst Thing We Can Do Is Nothing!

We love it when prospective partners recognize our hard work and passion and are moved to join us on our mission to support members of our community battling cancer and other chronic diseases. All ideas are welcome and appreciated.
